 - B. Brodie: Appointments won't occur until after first meeting, we try to split it into 2 weeks, with around 7 people per week. The week after, the justices get reconfirmed, which should be about 8 people, and after that EC needs to be confirmed, which should be 8 people, and then after, Chief Justice should get confirmed. We can have a conversation about what this process looks like. Carly will probably come in next week to talk about making changes to titles. Once you guys get through those 6 weeks, it slows down a lot.

2. Senator Cantrell
 - ii. Speeches
 1. Kennaugh: I am on the ORS committee too. I really like policy and stuff like this, so elections and appointments is my wheelhouse. I would love to learn about it, and I will be able to speed up in this role. I also think it would be a good way to invest in leadership that will be here for a couple of years.
 - iii. Questioning
 1. Ucciferri: What was Connor's role as vice and how does he intend to use it?
 - a. Brodie: Connor became chair at the beginning of spring semester. I believe he had talked to JC, previous chair, about ways to improve going forward, and he was in the meetings, talking to the supervisor of elections. He also worked with Election Commission on how to implement changes.
 2. Morrisette: During the summer is peak season for E&A? How do you plan on combating the long times?
 - a. Kennaugh: I am prepared to put in that time commitment. I only have one class with a lot of free time. Additionally, due to the job I used to work, I am used to long hours.
 - iv. Debate
 1. Damarla: I like both!
 2. Morrisette: I like how Kennaugh is willing to learn and is eager to learn!
