sure you are taking note of anything that interests you. We will be doing a kahoot on chapters 300-304 so please make sure you are paying attention!!

- b. I've had a few questions about when we are going to do LJR rep elections, and I plan to have that next week. If you are interested in any of the other internal committees and are not already in them, I encourage you to run!
7. Announcements from the Vice Chair Collazo-
- a. Hi everyone! I hope all is well. It is important that you make notes while we are reading statues because it could help when advising the Attorney General on grammatic errors and helping your committee members draft internal legislation.
 - b. Chair Courts and I do not want to introduce internal bills unless we must. So please, if you see any changes you want to make to the statues or Senate Rules, write a bill or two or maybe even four. I know I've written two internal bills myself but that's only because they are personal initiatives of mine.
 - c. I highly encourage everyone to run for LJR Representative positions for GAP and E&A. Please note that these representatives are meant to be fully knowledgeable on how to write internal bills and the statues as your primary role is to advise the committee on drafting internal legislation. Additionally, you will also be required to give announcements regarding the committee you are assigned to.
 - d. Royal Fact of the Day: Each European nation with a monarchy has established a Royal House and Royal Family except for the British (however they kind of do). The Royal House establishes the working members of the Royal Family. This is usually the sovereign, the former sovereign (if not dead), the sovereign's consort, the sovereign's children (if over the age of 18), the sovereign's immediate siblings, and their aunts or uncles. The Royal Family encompasses all members of the family. Cousins etc. However, The Royal Family is normally just stated as the monarch, their consort and their immediate children, their spouses, and their grandchildren.

 - 1. Speeches
 - 2. Questioning
 - a. Larsen: What are the benefits?
 - i. Collazo: It makes it to where everything is in one place
 - b. Al-Qudah: Is there a more profound reason as to why you didn't go more into depth about how the program would work and the members?
 - i. Collazo: Originally it was 2-3 pages long and outlined everything, but after talking to previous coordinators i learned that they would rather it not be too much into detail as it is at their discretion. I didn't want to change or create anything new, but if they do want to make any changes they are more than welcome to introduce legislation.
 - c. Larsen: Can anyone link the last description
 - i. Collazo: it is not in the statutes, so you would not be able to find it there. You would be able to find coordinators in the respective branch descriptions on the SG website.
 - 3. Debate
 - a. Al-Qudah- While I definitely like this idea and the author did their due diligence, I believe that what we have in statutes works (pending executive branch adding the official coordinator to their description) as it is in the coordinator's hands.

- b. Larsen: I am against unnecessary legislation that leaves no room for anything else. I agree with the last senator's debate, will not be voting in favor.
- c. Pro Tempore Morissette: I was a part of the initial proceedings of creating this Bill, and while it is very skeletal it still gives the new coordinators a guide to figure out how they are going to run the program, and I think having it in statutes to just go and look at would help everyone. Will be voting in favor.
