Member Discussion

Internal Bill 56-08

- Varela: think we should change it to not give ors the power of fiscal appeals. Spent the last week looking into the history of them, and i found a supreme court case (real life) from 2000 called board of regents of university of Wisconsin vs southworth, said any process that distributes student activity fees money has to have a neutral appeal body, concerned that ors' neutrality can be a problem in appeals. Still think we should run with amendments last time, It wouldn't really take away ors' power, was talking with Daniel. If there was an RSO that came and said they paid back business office "can i be unsanctioned", ors could give the expert opinion to judicial, it would be quick and most appropriate way to get something changed. Istilll
- Hendry: Can Sanctions stack?
- Rose: Yes
- Hendry: Can we do negative sanctions?
 - Rose: Idk sounds weird
- Rose: I would still prefer it to be in ORS's hands. But it's not a deal breaker to give judicial power
 - Varela: would still kind of be in ors hands
- Hendry: I think by doing this we should stay in bounds of senate limits and procedures
- Rose: I would like to hear what everyone thinks about senate exec's appeal powers
 - Varela: That's an internal matter, this would be for funding
 - Hendry: I would be in favor of passing things on the limit of what we can do, and then letting the other branches check us if they wanted to
 - Varela: I dont think it's worth fighting a battle for a bill we know is a violation
- Varela: Ill work on the amendments during VPFs and y'all can see it during the bill
- Rose: Do y'all think it will pass
- Lazo: I'm not super confident since it is complex and controversial
